Easter Egg Hunt with Curious Cottontail

Cumberland Heritage Village Museum
(2940 Old Montreal Road, Cumberland)

Saturday, April 19 from 10 am to 4 pm

Did you know our museum has its very own Easter Bunny named Curious Cottontail? He comes out of hiding only once a year to celebrate that spring is just around the corner and to help our young friends find their Easter eggs tucked away in the most unexpected places!

While hunting for their treats, children will learn about the history of Easter candy, the importance of agriculture in a rural village (by visiting our petting zoo!), and the special products that would have been for sale in a 1920s and 30s General Store during this time of year. They'll also have fun dyeing eggs the natural way (and how they would've done it years ago) and making a bead craft to take home.

Cost: $7/adult, $5/seniors and students, $18/family
